

Peacock and BuzzFeed invite you to a delectable spectacle with “Snoop and Martha’s Very Tasty Halloween”

The one-hour baking competition special, SNOOP AND MARTHA’S VERY TASTY HALLOWEEN, will stream Thursday, October 14th on Peacock.

From BuzzFeed Studios, Magical Elves and the minds of Tasty, the world’s largest digital food network, SNOOP AND MARTHA’S VERY TASTY HALLOWEEN is a competition special hosted by Snoop Dogg and Martha Stewart, featuring talented bakers who face off in a delectable Halloween showdown.

Teams of three bakers, called “Scare Squads,” are tasked with baking and building a full-sensory 12×12 Halloween world that people can literally explore. The catch? Their worlds must be inspired by the concept of fear. Imagine larger-than-life-sized chocolate spiders or cotton candy cobwebs! Trios of the country’s most talented and award-winning bakers compete to build an immersive, edible spectacle that celebrates the colorful creativity of Halloween. After the clock runs out, the judges crown the team that builds the tastiest confectionary world, and the competition ends in a fantastical Halloween party.

Tasty food content creator, Alvin Zhou will use his cooking and baking knowledge to judge each baker's creation alongside Snoop Dogg and Martha Stewart.